Wants To Pledge.

I want to make a contract with some ex-union soldier, who has been a Republican, and now a resident of the state of Kansas.

I want to pledge the ex-confederates and ex-Democrats of the state of Georgia to give electoral vote of our state to the People's party in the next election, if the ex-union soldiers of Kansas will pledge to give the electoral vote of their state for the same party.

We want to pledge, further, that we will keep Georgia out of the Democratic column so long as they will keep Kansas out of the Republican column. And we will bring up a Democratic southern state for every Republican western state added to the column.

Now, brother, give us your hand and we will enter into an indissoluble bond of union which shall never be broken while there is one lover of liberty left to raise the banner.

Send the news across the broad, beautiful prairies, and let every lover of liberty in the queen state of the west know that the empire state of the south is coming.

Let it be known from one end to the other of your great state that no power can hold us to the old party that has betrayed and sold out to our oppressors.

Don't be deceived with the idea that I. F. Livingston, or any other leader can lead us contrary to our convictions. We have waited thirty years to see the Democratic and Republican parties do something for the people, and what is the result?

Instead of legislating for the best interest of the people, they have buried over a million of our best men, and reduced about forty or fifty million more to the verge of bankruptcy.

Now let us who served as private soldiers, on both sides, unite under the banner of the common people, and restore our country to the people.

Flash it along the wires from ocean to ocean that we are ready to "pair off" with the Yank, and will give a Democratic state for a Republican state, until the Great West and the New South can march together to victory!

Who will be the first to extend the hand? W. F. SMITH

The Story of a Famous Phrase.

From Harper's Monthly.

Identical thoughts and identical forms may be original in many minds. The oration of our day which has taken its place among the few classics of eloquence is Lincoln's short speech at Gettysburg. The phrase most often quoted from it is "that government for the people, of the people and by the people shall not perish from the earth."

Porter's "Rhetorical Reader" was published in 1831; in 1839 it was in its fifty-second edition. From this edition I quote the following sentence for an "exercise," entitled "New Social Order in America," and credited to one, Douglass. "The European emigrant might believe himself as one transported to a new world, governed by new laws, and finds himself at once raised in the scale of being—the pauper is maintained by his own labor, the hired laborer works on his own account, and the tenant is changed into a proprietor while the depressed vassal of the old continent becomes co-legislator and co-ruler in a government where all power is for the people and in the people and for the people." The idea is not new, though this premature Douglass may have been the first to put it into this form. When Porter published these selections of prose and poetry, Lincoln was 22 years of age, and beginning to read law. It is possible that he may have read this very piece in a school-book which was widely circulated, and that this phrase may have stuck in his memory. It does not matter. The phrase in his mouth is as pure as a gold coin just dropped from the mint; it was his genius that set it in an immortal oration.

The Only Practical Solution of the Liquor Question.

The Methodist conference at its recent session in Kansas City, among other resolutions adopted the following:

That in the opinion of this body the present law is defective in principle, in that it permits the liquor traffic as a source of personal profit, thus constantly presenting the temptation to an illegal selling for purposes of gain. We are of opinion that it is preferable sales for constitutional purposes should be made only by salaried agents of the state, thus making it impossible that we should have, in the guise of drug stores, places that are really saloons.

Compare this resolution with the following plank of the People's party platform of Ohio in 1891:

We believe that the solution of the liquor problem lies in abolishing the element of profit, which is a source of constant temptation and evil, and we therefore demand that the exclusive importation, exportation, manufacture and sale of all spirituous liquors shall be conducted through the government or state at cost through agencies and salaried officials in such towns or cities as shall apply for such agencies.

The Creede Camp Excitement.

Creede Camp promises to become a second Leadville. The number of people going into this wonderful camp is unprecedented in the history of Colorado, except during the Leadville excitement. It is estimated that now the townsite is located, that there will be 10,000 people in the camp by June 1. The new discovery is only reached by the Denver and Rio Grande railroad and there is no staging.

A RELIC OF SUPERSTITION.

An Old Letter Purporting to be Written by Jesus Christ.

During a sojourn of almost three years in the land of orange blossoms one often meets with strange superstitions among the native Floridians or Crackers, as they are more commonly called, and the following letter, which is one of the relics of their ignorant superstition, may not prove uninteresting to the readers of the Voice. It came into the hands of your correspondent in the following manner:

My husband being a physician, this letter was given him during one of his professional visits—all in good faith and each family, as far as learned, had a copy in the house. When or how the original came into their hands we could not learn, but they seem to think, as the letter states, that with a copy of the letter in the house, no misfortune will befall them.

The letter is printed on heavy parchment paper, yellow with age and much stained. The text and composition are faithfully represented in the following:

A REMARKABLE LETTER.

[A copy of a letter from Jesus Christ found eighteen miles from Leonium, sixty-five years after our blessed Saviour's crucifixion, transmitted from that holy city by a converted Jew, faithfully translated from the original Hebrew copy, now in possession of the Lady Caban's family at Mesopotamia. This letter was written by Jesus Christ and found under a great stone eighteen miles from Leonium, near a village called Mesopotamia. Upon the stone was written and engraved, "Blessed is he that shall turn me over." All the people that saw it prayed to God earnestly and desired that he would make known to them the meaning of this writing that they might not attempt in vain to turn it over. In the meantime there came a little child six or seven years old and turned it over without help, to the admiration of all the people that stood by and under the stone was found a letter written by Jesus Christ, which was carried to Leonium and there published by a person belonging to the Lady Caban, and on the letter was written "The commandments of Jesus Christ," signed by the angel Gabriel, twenty-eight years after our Saviour's birth.]

"Whoever worketh on the Sabbath day shall have his curse; I command you to go to church and keep the Lord's day holy, without doing any manner of work. You shall not idly misspend your time in decking yourselves with superfluities in costly apparel and in dresses, for I have ordained it a day of rest. I will have it kept holy, so that your sins may be forgiven you. You shall not break my commandments, but observe and keep them, written with my own hand; write them in your hearts and steadfastly observe this was written with my own hand, spoken by my own mouth. You shall not only go to church yourselves, but also your man-servants and your maid-servants, and observe my words and learn my commandments. You shall finish your labor every Saturday in the afternoon by 5 of the clock, at which hour the preparation for the Sabbath begins. I advise you to fast five Fridays in every year, beginning with good Friday and to continue the four Fridays immediately following in remembrance of the five bloody wounds I received for all mankind. You shall diligently and peaceably labor in your respective vocations where I have pleased God to call you. You shall love one another with brotherly love and cause them that are not baptized to come to church and hear the holy sacrament, viz: baptism and the Lord's supper and be made members thereof; in so doing I will give you long life and many blessings and your land shall replenish and bring forth abundance and surely he that doth to the contrary shall be cursed and unprofitable. I will also send hardness of heart upon them that I have destroyed them, but especially upon the hardened and impenitent unbelievers. He that hath given to the poor, he shall not be unprofitable. Remember to keep holy the Sabbath day, for the seventh day I have taken to myself; and he that hath a copy of this letter written with my own hand and spoken by my own mouth and keep it without publishing it to others shall not prosper, but he that publishes it to others shall be blessed of me, and though his sins be in number as the stars in the sky, and he that believes in this shall be pardoned, and he that believes not this writing and my commandments, I will send my plagues upon him, and consume both him and his children and his cattle; and whosoever shall have a copy of this letter written with my own hand and keep it in his house, nothing shall hurt him, neither pestilence, lightning nor thunder shall do him any harm. * * * You shall have no news of me but by the Holy Spirit until the day of judgment. All prosperity shall be in the house where a copy of this letter shall be found."

The People's Party.

Nonconformist.

The Cincinnati Enquirer, one of the most prominent and influential democratic papers in the nation says: "Recent events in congress and country have been contributing to make the new party a great power in the future of this country. It may become an all-important factor in the election for president. The McKinley tariff bill, the trifling of congress on the free coinage of silver; the recent letter of ex-President Cleveland on that subject; the known hostility of the Harrison administration to the interest of the people; the conventions of bankers and financiers; the open hostilities of Wall street; the combined opposition of the leading papers of both parties in the east; the act of congress making specified contracts in gold; the persistent efforts on the part of the government officials to degrade silver to a commodity and drive it from circulation, are all contributing to make a third party highly probable.

While we believe the democratic party, which would now be all right but for the influence of the eastern wing, will ultimately champion the cause of the common people, as it has always done in the past when left to its better instincts, yet we are not under the dictation or control of any party. The end, and not the party, is the thing to be attained, and we therefore welcome relief to the toiling millions from whatever source it may come.

The above is an honest admission that the democratic party is under the influence of the eastern wing, and as the eastern wing or Wall street influence controls the republican party also, there is no chance for relief and no hope left for the toiling masses except through the People's party.

It seems that the cultivation of flax is not given much attention in this section of Kansas. Only a few nailes from here it is, and has been for years, one of the main crops. It is almost a sure crop and sells for prices that make a good profit to the farmer. When other counties near here raise vast quantities of flax and add a large percent to their wealth from the profits on this crop, our people should be up and doing, and reap some of the reward. Give flax-growing a trial and bring some of your samples to the Graphic office for the world's fair.—Muleane Graphic.
